"OUR FLIES JUST TASTE BETTER!"

Delivering quality flies for over 12 years.

|https://catchflyfish.com|

Finally a new catalog! We have not printed a Catalog since 2020 or really introduced anything ground breaking for quite some time. (We do apologize) But the reasons for this are many and good, I'll suffice it to say that all of our sacrifices are paying off and I am truly proud of where this company is going.

Catch Fly Fishing's long-term goal, vision and strategy has always been to have even further influence over our quality control. For 12 years we have been on a quest to tie the best fly that money can buy.

This year we are taking this to the next level with our own facility in Chiang Mai, Thailand, one of the greatest fly tying capitals for over 30 years.

With our new facility in Thailand, we will finally be able to control every aspect of our tying process, be more creative and carry a much larger inventory.

Every single bug will go through a quality control checklist to insure you get the same bug every single time. We have always stood behind our product and this will not change. If for any reason you are not happy with anything, just let us know and we will fix it.

We have shrunk our fly offering by 4000 Sku's and will continue to do so as we add and develop more of our brand and our style.

The staple patterns that have been around forever, will continue to be there, as well as most of our older designer patterns. But the end goal is to bring new innovative patterns only known to the CATCH brand through new designers and new ideas.

I hope as we continue through this new journey, you will stick with us as customers and continue to give your support and feedback. We truly appreciate your business.

-Eric BeeBe (CEO and Founder)

“West by Midwest” might be the best way to describe Aaron’s fly fishing career and overall outlook on the greatest places for one to explore some of the world’s greatest fly fishing opportunities.

Growing up chasing after the hatchery truck dumping stockers into the marginal trout streams of rural farming communities as a kid to chasing steelhead and hex hatches up and down the Great Lakes tribs as a young adult to moving further west to fish the big rivers and spring creeks Aaron has guided in several states, tied commercially and been involved in fly design for many years-- It’s an obsession.

Regardless of state or season, from Montana to Michigan Aaron is thinking about flies 24/7. “Whether I’m on the water, in the shops or on the vise I’m always thinking about the next new way to create a fly that will delight both the fish and fisherman alike.”

BRIAN SMOLINSKI

Brian J Smolinski grew up in Minnesota fishing for Northern Pike and other warmwater species. In 2001 he moved to River Falls, Wisconsin and began working in a fly shop right near the banks of the Kinnickinnic River. Fishing for stream trout in the northern section of the Driftless Region broadened his love for fly fishing and fly tying. In 2011 the shop closed and he opened Lund's Fly Shop just a block away from the old shop and specializes in fly patterns for trout, panfish, bass, pike, muskie, & more!

SUNNY SUNDGAARD

“The charm of fishing is that it is the pursuit of what is elusive but attainable, a perpetual series of occasions for hope.”

Hanging prominently in his fly tying den, this quote reflects the meaning of fishing for Sunny Sundgaard. And if you asked him what his favorite fish is to target with a fly rod? Carp. Period. Hands down the most fascinating fish he’s ever had the chance chase. Powerful, spooky, intelligent, unpredictable, all describe one of the most underrated gamefish to be targeted on a fly rod. His carp flies are inspired by a deep interest in innovation and functionality. He is consumed by what is possible with carp patterns that work and work consistently.

ALEX LAFKAS

Alex Lafkas has been a fly-fishing guide in Northern Michigan since 2000 and has been fly-fishing the Au Sable and Manistee Rivers for over 20 years. Alex began commercial tying in 1994 for Gates AuSable Lodge in Gryaling, MI. He has learned from the best anglers and guides on these rivers. He is extremely passionate about fly-fishing, guiding, and fly-tying. Alex's college years took him to Montana where he spent days and nights fishing the Yellowstone, Beaverhead, Madison, and many other great rivers. There is no off season for Alex; he takes advantage of the extended seasons on both the Au Sable and Manistee Rivers.

His love for the sport of fly fishing and desire to be a business owner is leading him on an adventure to start a website that is a comprehensive guide to fly fishing the Colorado waters. Allen is a dry fly enthusiast and prefers hunting small streams for any trout that will eat a dry fly. Allen has a lot of life ahead of him and he is excited to see what opportunities his passions bring his way. Allen loves Catch flies because of their unsurpassed quality and of course Colorado trout think they are the tastiest flies around!

AUSTIN ADDUCI

Captain Austin Adduci is a self taught tyer and fly fisherman born and raised in Chicago. He was introduced to fishing at a young age while on family vacations. Austin could be found sitting on a dock in the Florida Keys drowning frozen shrimp for hours. It wasn't until high school that he picked up a fly rod and the rest is history. He founded Grab Your Fly Charters in 2009. He is the only full-time fly fishing guide in the greater Chicagoland area. He guides the southern basin of Lake Michigan, the Kankakee River, Beaver Island, and the Pere Marquette River. His favorite species to fish for are tarpon, carp, and smallmouth, in that order. He is a supporter of Coastal Conservation Association, the Illinois Smallmouth Alliance, and the FFF.

BJORN OSTBY

Bjorn Ostby has been around fly fishing since he was old enough to wear a life jacket and drop his dad's fiberglass rods out of the family canoe. Having grown up in the inland northwest for his entire life, Bjorn has had the opportunity to fish the blue ribbon trout streams of Idaho and Montana, the lakes of eastern Washington, and world-renowned steelhead rivers of the Pacific Northwest. Being able to easily access these fly testing laboratories in his backyard has allowed him to conduct plenty of "research." This is evident in the wide variety of flies and in the effectiveness of his creations.

Bjorn's flies are an eclectic mix of modern and traditional materials and designs. His tying interests include everything from size 22 midges to huge articulated, meaty streamers for enticing the most aggressive of fish to turn cannibalistic. When nothing else is working, try one of his flies like the Mr. Creepo, one of the most effective streamers on the market.

Britten Jay was born in Cheyenne, Wyoming and moved to Spokane, Washington just before fourth grade. He has been in the water casting a rod since he was 7 years old. After attending Washington State University Britten moved back to Spokane where he resides and teaches 7th & 8th grade science full time at Salk Middle School. Over the years Britten has mastered the art of reading water, tying flies and currently spends his “free” time working at the Silver Bow fly shop in Spokane, hunting with his Chessie, “Caddis,” whitewater rafting, fishing one of many rivers and lakes in the beautiful Pacific NW or guiding on the Spokane River & other fisheries.

CHRIS MADSON

Chris Madson grew up on Big Goose Creek in the heart of the Bighorn Mountains. At a young age he started fishing and enjoying the outdoors. He has always been an outdoors junky, with a desire for fly fishing and adventure. He received his first fly rod and vise at an early age and was hooked. He began tying simple patterns, but his obsession continued to grow and so did his ability to trick those big fish. He continues to create and tweak patterns to entice all types of fish. As an avid fly fisherman and guide, he has spent most of his life fishing in Wyoming, Montana, Idaho, Hawaii and Belize, but his true love is the far North regions of Canada, chasing large Pike on the fly.

DOUG HARTMAN

Doug Hartman is an accomplished fly fisherman with more than thirty years of experience fishing in the Rocky Mountain west and Alaska. He has a love for the outdoors, a passion for fly fishing and, equally important, more than twenty five years fly tying experience. Doug excels at combining the tradition of fly fishing with new and innovative pattern designs. He is a certified guide and has introduced men and women of all ages, from elementary students to first-timer fishers in their sixties and every age in between, to this incredible sport. He says there are few things as gratifying as being on a river having a great day when someone comes over and asks him what he's fishing with.... and being able to share that new pattern with a fellow fly fisher.

DYLAN KOBYLESKI

Growing up in the Chicago suburbs had always been very taxing on my soul. It wasn't until rather recently I had found my cure-all. My family had always made the summer migration to Wisconsin's northwoods, where I would jig bait from my dad's rowboat. It wasn't until a few years ago, that I was told I had an addiction to fishing. I had accepted the fact with open embrace and set out to learn all I could. Soon after, I purchased my first fly rod and began trying to help pay for the hobby. I became captivated with the beauty of the brookie on the dry and the savage strike of the muskie. If I'm not behind the vice, I'm wading the streams of Wisconsin and the upper peninsula of Michigan, or chatting it up at the only remaining fly shops in the suburbs. In fall, you could find me religiously chasing Milwaukee browns. I have found my true calling and try to make it my every living moment.

ETHAN WINCHESTER

Born and raised in northern Michigan, Ethan has been fishing the area as long as he can remember. Ethan gained his passion for fly fishing after casting his first flies on the legendary Au Sable River. During college, Ethan fished the western Michigan tributaries extensively for trout, salmon and steelhead, spending as much time in waders as in the lecture hall. His love for cold water resources and protecting the fisheries he loves led Ethan to founding and serving as President of the first collegiate affiliate of Trout Unlimited in the nation, Ferris Trout Unlimited.

GREGG MARTIN

My name is Gregg Martin and have been fly fishing since I was 12, or 50 years ago. I began to tie flies shortly after, laughable creations done without a bobbin, often with sewing thread, but adults bought them and I never have stopped for long. A term in the Army and as a BLM Smokejumper in Alaska only slightly slowed down both fishing and tying. I was injured on the job in 1985 and have been fishing from a modified wheelchair ever since, which at times may be an advantage. My wife and I have 3 children, 2 of whom became avid fly fishermen and carpers with a grandson I've been teaching to fly fish as well. They and my other grand-kids are the essence of my life.

JIM PANKIEWICZ “MR. P”

Jim is a lifelong resident of Washington State. His earliest memory is of fishing with his dad. Jim has been an avid fly fisherman and fly tyer since 1971. His patterns, the Carp Carrot and Black Betty, have taken Carp across the world. He created and produced “Lessons from the Carp Lodge”, an original video series demonstrating how to catch Carp on the fly. Look for his videos “The Best Thing About Fly Fishing for Carp” and “Detecting the Take” on YouTube.

JOHN “MONTANA” BARTLETT

Little known fact about me. When I hooked and landed my first ever carp on the fly, I made my buddy Justin release it for me. Yes, like most North American anglers I grew up associating words like “Trashfish” and “gross” with carp. Isaac Walton be damned, Americans have long hated the common carp. Fortunately for me, the sound of my creaking bamboo six weight and the furious battle the “Trashfish” gave me convinced me to take them a bit more seriously. Eight or so years later and I am an absolute carp on the fly addict. There quite simply is no other fish that can combine such an interesting method, with such explosive fighting ability, and yet be so difficult to catch. As we always say, and sometimes mean...it wouldn't be nearly as much fun if we caught them all. I live near Portland, OR now with my lovely wife Kelly and two kids, Elia and JJ. JJ touched his first carp at 6 weeks old, and Elia fought her first carp on a Barbie fishing pole at 18 months... my kids are my constant companions and not once have they called a carp “gross”.

JONATHAN ZUKOWSKI

I grew up in New Hampshire fly fishing the many rivers, streams, lakes, and ponds that surround me. The waterbody that has had the most impact on myself has been the Pemigewasset River, conveniently flowing through my backyard. Fishing for brook trout on this river was what really got me into fly-fishing at the age of 7. My family would take annual trips to Maine to fish for salmon and trout. Each time we would return from a Maine trip I would take to the "Pemi" from sun up to sun down, for days in a row.

Sadly Johnny Z passed away on April 6, 2022.

KRIS THOMPSON

Kris Thompson's fly fishing roots began at 9 years old, in the Rangeley Region of Maine, in an old beat up canoe on a remote backwoods pond. Through his early adult years he worked at popular fishing lodges in the Rangeley Region, on both the Magalloway and Rapid Rivers. By the age of 20 he acquired his guide license and eventually started a successful guiding business and received his Federation of Fly Fishers casting certification. Today, Kris lives in Rangeley with his loving wife and three children. He has owned and operated Pond in the River Guide Service since 2001.

MARK ERDOSY

I consider myself an equal opportunity fly fisherman. I'll fly fish for anything that swims, but I would have to say that my personal favorite species to target are carp and steelhead. I consider sight fishing to be the pinnacle of the sport and since carp are the smartest gamefish I have ever targeted, they rule that roost. On the other end of the spectrum resides the anticipation of the unknown. Swinging flies for steelhead has captivated me since I set my first sustained anchor. When that fly begins its swing, you can only imagine what is taking place under the water column. When that big pull comes, it releases an entirely different set of feelings compared to when a fish visibly eats your fly. I live for those two moments.

MATT CAMPBELL

When I started my very first job as a young kid, I got a job at a small fly shop near my home and my hobby/addiction was started. I started tying flies for the owner and after tying several flies for bass and having immediate success I was hooked. The shop had a pond out back and a stream beside it where I practiced to improve my skills. When I caught my first sizeable smallmouth bass on a fly rod, I started chasing this wonderful gamefish almost exclusively during the warm Ohio summers. During the long winters I was commercially tying flies and stocking my guide boxes for the next season. I have made some great friends and met people from all over the world. It is an experience that has changed my life and created memories I will treasure forever.

MATT PIKE

Matt Pike came to fly fishing and tying relatively late in life, although that hasn't diminished his passion for the sport, and in some instances has been a benefit in his tying. Matt quickly realized that trout fishing and tying midges and dries were not his forte after the first time he happened upon a carp flat fishing for bass. The carp fly world at that time was small, incredibly unique, and completely overwhelmed with bread flies. That led Matt to experiment (play) at the vise into the wee hours while he dreamt of those slimy golden monsters exploding and churning the nearly opaque and silent lake mud flats as they made the acquaintance of one of his creations at the end of the tippet.

NOLAN MAJCHER

Nolan Majcher lives to fish. His fly fishing career started on the difficult trout streams of Pennsylvania. The wary trout of his old stomping grounds forced him to perfect his craft. To fund his fishing habit, Nolan worked for Orvis as head casting and fly tying instructor. As an instructor he taught hundreds of anglers, both novice and veteran, proper technique.

Equipped with the knowledge to be an excellent guide, Nolan migrated to the fishing paradise of the Yellowstone Valley. His passion for fishing is contagious when spending a day on the water together. Clients love Nolan's laid back nature and no nonsense approach to getting fish in the net. TREVOR "MCTAGE" TANNER

Trevor "McTage" Tanner grew up as a 4th generation fly fisherman chasing high country trout on dries. Fifteen years ago while living in Michigan he discovered that trout are not the only valid fly fishing species and perhaps not even the best. Over forty species later he is of the opinion that the honor goes to the Carp and he now chases them nearly exclusively. In 2011 he teamed up with Clint Packo and they rode "McTage's Trouser Worm" to the Carp-Slam V championship in downtown Denver.

TROY BASSO

I was born in Michigan and began fishing the rivers of the great north at an early age. Fly fishing came to me early and chasing warmwater fish came soon after that. After a 10 year hitch in the US Army I settled in Tennessee and began fishing and guiding. Along the way I ended up writing for some magazines and that grew to where I have become a nationally published writer with an emphasis on fly fishing. I also teach tying classes from the beginner level up to advanced courses on articulated flies for toothy fish and some saltwater patterns. My website is located at www.troybasso.com

Stephen Nymick began fly fishing at just 7 years old on his local streams in Western Pennsylvania. Stephen started his own business selling his unique patterns commercially while in school. NIALL MCCARTHY

Niall McCarthy lives and breathes steelhead. Fishing skating and waking flies and under the tutelage of a local guide; he got his first taste of steelhead on the swing in Oregon on the fabled North Umpqua River. Upon graduation from University of Oregon he moved back to Chicago and continued to swing flies for Great Lakes steelhead. His favorite places to swing flies are on the west coast of Michigan and on unnamed rivers on the Oregon coast. His flies are tied temple dog style but with modern synthetic materials that entice steelhead like no other. They are designed to catch steelhead the world over.

WALTER WIESE

Walter Wiese started fly fishing in the Missouri Ozarks when he was six. Nowadays his home waters are the Yellowstone River, Missouri River, and Yellowstone Park. He has been guiding and outfitting in Montana and the park since 2001, but he still has a soft spot for Midwestern spring creeks, tailwaters, and bass rivers. Walter began tying commercially in 2002. While he likes to design all sorts of flies for anything that swims, his particular specialty is low-floating yet highly-visible and buoyant dry flies that put clients with average or lower skill into fish on heavily-pressured float rivers in the Rockies.

KEVIN COUGHLIN

I grew up fishing on the cheap in southern Baja. My Dad, brothers and I would make trips from Phoenix down there, renting rickety skiffs, catching the big blue water stuff and roosters. I started guiding fly fishing in 2002 while in school at the university of Tennessee. I have guided since then, mostly in TN, but also a bit in the FL keys and in the Carolinas. My passion is developing, mostly saltwater, patterns that actually work in hard hit areas like the Keys, Mosquito lagoon and then some tricky landlocked striper and musky stuff in the TN valley.

JOSH STINNETT

Josh is a Southern Appalachian born and raised trout bum. He grew up fishing small streams for wild and wary brook, brown, and rainbow trout in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park near Gatlinburg, Tennessee. He now spends his summers in his hometown and spends the rest of the year in Johnson City, Tennessee for school at East Tennessee State University. This placed him in the midst of some of the greatest tailwater fishing Southern Appalachia has to offer in the Watauga and South Holston rivers. Because of his widespread fishing background Josh's patterns are a culmination of the qualities needed to catch both finicky tailwater fish and voracious, native brook trout in any stream or river.

BODEN RUSSELL

My goal is to put more fish in your net by focusing on 2 goals. First, I strive to publish only highly productive patterns that have undergone multiple iterations of design and testing. These are literally the GOTO patterns I'm rigging up with out on the water myself. Second, I seek to promote conservational efforts and mindsets that ultimately benefit fish habitats. In fact, all of my designer proceeds as part of fly sales are donated directly to Trout Unlimited. For more details on my patterns including tips on fishing them, check out my website: brflyfishing.org.

JOHN SEALS

John caught the fishing bug early when his dad first started taking him to local Chicago area ponds and lakes at the age of 12. Like most kids, his success centered on drowning worms for bluegill, channel cat, bullheads, and small bass. It wasn't until he discovered river fishing for smallmouth bass that his passion was born! John grew up fishing jigs and Rapalas on the Kankakee River for smallmouth almost every week, giving him the chance to learn how to read rivers and properly present to feeding lanes. It was these experiences that would sow the seeds for his eventual love of streamer fishing in adulthood.

CRAIG BOULDEN

Born in Casper, Wyoming, I was lucky enough to experience first-hand the untamed splendor of the wild west. Even as a boy, my whole world revolved around the outdoors, learning about the fish that littered the streams, rivers and lakes. My grandpa must have recognized the wildness in me because, when I was only seven, Gramps taught me a deep respect for nature, and the magical world of fly tying and fly fishing. I was amazed that I could catch fish on my own hand-tied creations and was hooked immediately.
